Excess Deaths Due to Fear Mongering

The term “excess deaths” means deaths from all causes that statistically exceed those normally occurring in a certain time period.

The CDC claims 285,000 excess deaths since February with 66 percent due to COVID-19. The rest may be indirectly related, such as from fear-mongering or the lockdown. For example, deaths from heart disease in New York increased by 400 percent.

As Dr. Scott Atlas, President Trump’s senior advisor and the newest member of the White House Coronavirus Task Force, said recently in an interview, “There is no such thing as a government leader who is competent who instills fear.” Dr. Fauci, the CDC and a whole platoon of fear-mongering state governors should be heeding his advice.
